

The vote for Congressmen in this State has been reported officially at Madison, so that the exact vote and majority can be given. The vote shows a falling off from 1876, but a marked gain over 1877. The total Congressional vote in 1878, 3,206, 297, while in the Presidential year it was 256,260, and only 178,122 in the gubernatorial election of 1877. In the First District, where the Democratic and the Greenback vote was united, the vote and the majority are as follows:

Total vote of the district	34,578
Williams majority	4,680
Total vote in 1876	34,712
Republican majority	5,785
Total vote in 1877	31,930
Republican majority	3,930

In the Second District, in which the Democrats had much hope of electing their candidate, the vote disappointed the Republicans as much as it did the Democrats. With a Republican majority in 1876 of only 328, and with a Greenbacker in the field in 1877 the Republicans might well feel no little degree of solicitude regarding their candidate, but the official returns give the following result:

Total vote of the district	31,285
Casswell's plurality	3,105
Total vote in 1876	29,513
Republican majority	3,285
Total vote in 1877	29,716
Republican majority	514

The Third District shows a strange condition of affairs, so far as the Republican vote is concerned. The District is strongly Republican, and under ordinary circumstances, it should give not less than 2,000 Republican majority. But here is the vote as compared with other years:

Total vote of the district	32,520
Democrat's plurality	1,385
Total vote in 1876	32,605
Democratic majority	5,785
Total vote in 1877	32,670
Democratic majority	2,880

The most remarkable result in the State was the Fourth District in which Frisby ran for Congress against Dureter. The District is from 5,000 to 7,000 Democratic majority but in 1878 the vote was surprising as will be seen from the returns:

Total vote of the district	33,530
Dureter's plurality	135
Total vote in 1876	32,605
Democratic majority	5,785
Total vote in 1877	32,670
Democratic majority	2,880

The Fifth District is also a Democratic stronghold, and usually the majority is above 5,000, but in 1878 the result was as compared with other years:

Total vote of the district	36,801
Purity for Briggs	2,136
Total vote in 1876	33,575
Democratic majority	3,513
Total vote in 1877	34,225
Democratic majority	3,520

If the Republicans in the Sixth District had been strongly united, Mr. Bonck could have defeated, but the Democrats pulled together to a man, leaving the Greenback vote to be drawn chiefly from the Republican party:

Total vote of the district	31,243
Bonck's plurality	2,143
Total vote in 1876	32,470
Democratic majority	2,776
Total vote in 1877	25,026
Democratic majority	711

The Sixth District showed a great falling off and the Republican vote as compared with the vote of 1876 which Judge Humphrey received over 6,000 majority. The following is the comparison:

Total vote of the district	35,136
Humphrey's majority	2,376
Total vote in 1876	33,331
Vote for May, Greenback, in 1876	1,873
Republican majority	6,063
Total vote in 1877	28,289
Republican majority	8,269

The Eighth District was considered very close, and the Democrats were confident of electing Barrows, who was nominated for a Democratic-Greenback candidate. But the Republican vote was increased, and the following is the comparative result:

Total vote of the district	24,216
Pound's majority	1,434
Total vote in 1876	26,698
Republican majority	2,028
Total vote in 1877	20,518
Republican majority	1,696

The Evening Wisconsin, in making a complete analysis of the vote gives the following division of the vote for 1878, 1877, and 1876:

Total congressional vote in the State in 1876	206,297
Republican vote in 1876	100,930
Democratic vote in 1876	105,367
Greenback vote in 1876	1,930
Temperance and scattering in 1876	7,070
Republican plurality	6,340
Republican majority	2,375
Total gubernatorial vote in 1877	178,122
Republican vote in 1877	70,259
Democratic vote in 1877	70,486
Greenback vote in 1877	26,216
Republican plurality	8,573
Total congressional vote in the State in 1878	326,260
Republican vote in 1878	163,130
Democratic vote in 1878	163,130
Greenback vote in 1878	1,000
Temperance and scattering in 1878	1,130
Republican plurality	1,000
Republican majority	1,000

THE ADULTERATION OF SUGAR.

The recent investigations regarding the adulteration of sugar have led many to believe that it is almost an impossibility to purchase a pure article at the stores. It has been asserted that all the refineries in this country use adulterations, and the investigation went to show that the purest article of white sugar which was examined, contained 17 per cent. of adulteration.

PARIS, Nov. 21.—The duel between Gambetta and De Fourteau came off to-day. Shots were exchanged at 35 paces, but neither was hurt.

ROM, Nov. 21.—The Pope has not condescended King Humbert on his escape from assassination.

SILVER ACITATION.

New Legislation Proposed by the Silver Men in Congress.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Judge Buckner, of Missouri, Chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, and President of the Congressional Silver League, in answer to an inquiry to say as to what the silver men proposed doing in Congress this winter, said it was proposed to secure unlimited coinage, if possible, and in other ways try to make silver as good as gold. He thought something would be done with regard to retiring the circulation of national bank notes, but he was only speaking from his impressions, and not from the knowledge of any stated plan. As soon as sufficient members have arrived the matter will be talked over, and some definite scope of action decided upon. The session would be short, and there was a great deal to do, so that, if any result was accomplished, it would be necessary to proceed at once. He did not think the resumption act would be disturbed. Secretary Sherman would be allowed a fair chance to bring about specie payments if he was able to do so, and he hoped the Secretary would succeed.

THE SPEAKER.

Talks About the Organization of the (Next House—The Speaker's Ship).

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—There is already considerable talk about the organization of the next Congress, but no one can make any sort of a calculation one year in advance. The Democrats claimed majority of four over all, by the latest returns, and unless there is some political convulsion within the next year, they will, of course, retain the organization. There was a scheme before the election, in case the Republicans and Greenbackers got a joint majority, to put up Judge Critcher, of Virginia, who was a Whig member of Congress in the old days, but who ran as a Greenbacker in the W. T. Virginia District this fall, but as he was not elected, he must stand aside with Sawyer, who was his formidable opponent. It is the opinion of some Republicans who have been here, that Judge Kelley, of Pennsylvania, would be the best man as candidate for Speaker against the Democratic nominee next year, as the Greenback men would certainly vote for him, and he will be, as he has been for four years the oldest member of the House in length of service.

ANGELL.

His Whereabouts Discovered in Lisbon, Portugal.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 21.—1:30 a. m.—A report was received here last night that a dispatch had been sent here by the American Minister at Lisbon stating that Angell, the Pullman Car Company defaulter, has been discovered in that city. The persons who should know most about the matter only know that such is the report. No satisfactory details have been received at this hour. If Angell is in Portugal, he has doubtless selected this country of refuge after careful study. It will be remembered that when Tweed and Winslow fled, it was decided that Spain and Portugal were the safest places to avoid extradition. There is either no treaty of extradition with Portugal, or the terms of the treaty are so loose that an attempt at extradition would be unsuccessful unless Portugal, for some political reason, should be disposed to go beyond the law to place Angell in the custody of the United States detectives. It is not possible at this hour to ascertain the exact terms of the Portugal treaty. There has been no recent treaty with that country covering extradition.

TILDEN.

His Last Presidential Move—Engineering to Carry Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—New York politicians fresh from Tilden's friends say that he has not abandoned the hope of recouping the Presidential nomination, but that he is convinced that he cannot carry the solid Gulf States. He is accordingly planning to secure Pennsylvania. To this end a new paper has been started in Erie in his interest, and the influence of some other papers in Pittsburgh is expected. The Erie paper is said to be under the control of W. L. Scott, who was connected in some way with Senator Barium in the mule business.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 20.—At the second annual meeting of the Managers of the Wisconsin Industrial School, reports were read from the President, Secretary and Treasurer, and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. E. P. Allis; Second, Mrs. A. C. May; Third, Mrs. Edward Sanderson; Treasurer, Mrs. C. D. Adair; Secretary, Mrs. R. A. Aikens.

MRS. SENATOR BRUCE.

Washington Society Agitated Concerning Her Expected Debut—The Sort of Treatment She Will Probably Receive—Mrs. Senator Planchet's Experience—No More Negroes in Congress.

Correspondence of the Later Ocean.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Senator Bruce, who has been traveling in Europe with his bride since his marriage in June, is expected to arrive here soon, and has engaged a handsome residence on Capitol Hill for the remainder of his Senatorial term, which expires on March 3, 1881. There is some social agitation here with regard to the manner in which Mrs. Bruce will be received by the swells of Washington. She is a lady of fine personal appearance, an octogenarian, and perhaps better educated than most of the women who intend to snub her, if she presumes to enter society. She was a school teacher in Cleveland, but her husband has sufficient wealth to gratify any taste she may have in the way of personal adornment, and it is whispered that a wardrobe purchased by her in Europe would be prized by any of our belles. It is a requirement of official etiquette, here, that all the Cabinet ladies and the wives of Congressmen, shall make the first call upon a Senator's wife, and the wives of the other Senators always make the approach to all acquaintances with the wives of new Senators. Mrs. Bruce will experience no embarrassment from the treatment she will receive from Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Sherman, and the other Cabinet ladies, and Mrs. Hayes, whose gentility is beyond a question, intends to make Mrs. Bruce at home at once, by her "official" greeting. It is said that Mrs. Bruce will be invited to attend Mrs. Hayes at the first Presidential reception. The only colored Senator's wife who ever attempted an entrance to Washington society was Mrs. Planchet, six years ago, and being both beautiful and accomplished, she was not only treated with civility, but was made quite a honoree. It may be that Mrs. Bruce will receive similar treatment.

It will be noticed that there will be no negroes in the next Congress unless O'Hara, of North Carolina, gets a certificate, which is doubtful. There were seven colored candidates for Congress, each in a district where their race was overwhelmingly in the majority, and where each, by a large vote, would have been elected by a majority greater than the opposition, but not one of them, except O'Hara, ever hoped for success, so confident were they of the methods of their white opponents. There is a colored voting population in the South of over half a million, but in the Forty-sixth Congress, three of them were unrepresented, except by Bruce in the Senate. In the Forty-second Congress there were nine negroes; in the Forty-third, seven; in the Forty-fourth, four; in the Forty-fifth, three; in the Forty-sixth there will be none. Hereafter the only use of the Fifteenth amendment will be to give the Southern members of Congress and increase the electoral vote of its States.

FOUR MILLIONAIRES.

The Rich Citizens San Francisco Has Lost Within a Year.

From the San Francisco Alta, October 30. The death since the beginning of the year of four millionaires of San Francisco, reputed to be millionaires, three of them leaving each an estate estimated at more than $1,000,000, suggests some remarks on their career. All of them began life in poverty; not one of them made his money by mere luck; and all were men considerably above the average in business reputation and moral character. Hopkins, Rees and Colton had rare industry, tact and business capacity, and yet were very strict in habits and tastes. Hopkins was a quiet, judicious, and trusted by all who knew him well; but it is to be regretted that he had a natural liking for speculation, and made many investments which would never have found favor with Hopkins, but he was much more careful than the average speculator. He enjoys the spending as well as the making of money. He was proud of his magnificent home, and was the only one of the four that had a home in the city, which he built rather as a sense of duty to California than as a gratification of his own taste. Like the others, Colton had an excellent reputation for fair dealing. It would, we imagine, be no injustice to Michael Reese to call him a gentleman. He had a genius for lending money. An excellent judge of men and a sound thinker, he carefully studied the investments offered to him before accepting them. It was his rule to rely exclusively on his own judgment, and never to take a large risk merely because of a possibility of large gains. Reasonable certainty of a moderate profit was in his opinion the first requisite in a business transaction. After he had acquired his first million he borrowed largely, and nobody knew better where to borrow cheap or lend dear. He provided himself with a good stock of available securities, from which he could readily obtain money from people who would not lend unless they could obtain their funds at very short notice. He loaned at much higher rates. It is said by those who ought to know, that he made $300,000 annually on borrowed money. He paid several visits to Europe, and sometimes indulged in little luxuries, but his expenditures for personal enjoyment were generally less than those of men with an income of $2,000 a year. His only gift of money for a public purpose in his lifetime, so far as we know, was that of $3,000 to purchase Lieber's library for a state university. He could make a handsome agreeable to company, and was fair and faithful in business transactions.

W. S. O'Brien had no uncommon capacity in any respect, and in the ordinary course of events he would not have made much of his moderate fortune. He owed much of his success to genial manners. As a good fellow he had few superiors. He always had a cheerful word for everybody and everybody liked him. His popularity contributed much to give a start to the house of Flood & O'Brien, and he was fortunate enough to be associated with men whose special knowledge and talents raised the firm to princely wealth. He did not bother himself much in the acquisition or management of his wealth; it added little to his happiness; and made little change in his tastes or associations. He was to the last the same plain, simple-hearted man among his old friends as in the earlier days.

Each of these four men deserved their good fortune, acquired it fairly, and used it in a manner that did no harm to the community. Hopkins obtained much of his wealth from government subsidies, but in return he helped to build 2,000 miles of railroad, and he made a good return for all he got. Cotton helped to build 70 miles of railroad. O'Brien's wealth contributed to erect one of the finest buildings and to found one of the wealthiest banks in the United States. Reese erected many good buildings. Hopkins, O'Brien and Reese were childless; Cotton left two daughters. The millions accumulated by one generation will be distributed by the next.

A nephew of Bob Ingersoll, a student at Cornell, has been cruelly hazed; by his fellow students, who bound and gagged him, shaven off his mustache, and after daubing his face and clothes with paint, took him to a stone wall at the foot of a steep hill, where he was hung head downward and made to promise that he would 's' he was told.

Some man with an eagerness for fame has invented a spring-seat saddle that will rock a man to sleep on the hard-stomping animal. What this country needs is some kind of a saddle that will hold a man on the roof of a horse when he suddenly, and without warning, points at the sky with his tail.—Cincinnati Breakfast Table.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

The President Appoints Thursday, November 28th.

By the President of the United States—A Proclamation.

The recurrence of that season at which it is the habit of our people to make devout and public confession of their constant dependence on Divine favor for all good gifts of life and happiness, and of public peace and prosperity, as exhibited in the record of the year, the abundant reasons for our gratitude and thanksgiving, the exuberant harvests, the productive mines, ample crops, of the staples of trade and manufactures which have enriched the country; the resources thus far furnished to our reviving industry and expanding commerce, and hastening the day when our country shall be the land of the living and the land of the dead, under the continued favor of Providence, have given way to confidence and energy and the prosperity of the people, with all nations has remained unbroken; domestic tranquility has prevailed, and the institutions of liberty and justice have remained unshaken; and the virtues of our fathers established, remain the glory and the defense of their children. The general prevalence of the blessings of health throughout our wide land has made more conspicuous the sufferings and sorrows which the dark shadow of pestilence has cast on a portion of our people. This heavy affliction, even the Divine Ruler has tempered to the suffering communities by the universal sympathy and success which have flowed to their relief, and the whole nation may rejoice in the unity of spirit in our people by which they cheerfully share one another's burdens.

Now, therefore, I, Rutherford B. Hayes, President of the United States, do appoint Thursday, the 28th day of November next, as a day of National thanksgiving and prayer, and I earnestly recommend that, withdrawing themselves from secular avocations, the people of the United States do meet together on that day in their respective places of worship, to give thanks and praise to Almighty God for His mercies, and to devoutly beseech their continuance.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed. Done at the City of Washington, this 23rd day of October, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy-eight, and the independence of the United States one hundred and third.

(SIGNED) R. B. HAYES.

By the President, WM. M. EVARTS, Secretary of State.

The Primary Cause of a Distant Symptom.

Nervousness is rarely a disease in itself, inherent, but is the lineal offspring of dyspepsia, in a majority of cases. The nervous disturbance is at first trifling, but ultimately its parent so undermines the general health as to produce consequences very threatening to that great nervous centre, the brain. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is the most powerful medicinal opponent of the ravages of indigestion, and protects the nervous system from them. The tremors, the unnatural anxiety, the headaches, the sleeplessness and loss of appetite which characterizes digestive irregularity and weakness, and which are almost invariably accompanied by an uncertain condition of the bowels and inactivity of the liver, are all eradicated by this matchless corrective, and when nervousness does not proceed from the cause designated, it affords most grateful relief.

Seasonable Advice to the Young.

Troy Times: The young man who was married at some time during the past spring or summer, and who has been so devoted ever since, discovers the quality of his affection fearfully strained when, having turned out the gas, he jumped into bed and finds his shivering form used as a hearstone for her dear little feet, whose touch suggests the sepulchre of St. John Franklin, and whose every movement excites anew the miserable husband's susceptibility to climate changes. But he should remember that it is such episodes as these that try married souls, and it is the heroic endurance of these ills that set upon the Benedict the mark of true nobility. Let him suffer and die still, and he will have reward in a hereafter where all is warmth and sunshine, and where there are none but angel feet, which is generally conceded to be no of the character that produces frigidity accompanied by chills and shivers.

Gallows Wanted in Kentucky.

From the Mayville (Ky.) Eagle. The healthiest thing that could take place in Kentucky would be the spectacle of several old-fashioned hangings. Human life is so cheap in this State that no sounder ever happens to shoot down any one who has given him the most trivial offense in broad daylight for fear of the law. He may apprehend that his own life may be taken in the conflict, or he may shrink from the offense, but he never stops for fear of being judiciously executed. Could it be made certain to these assassins that their crimes would be punished by death there would not be one murder in Kentucky where there are now a hundred. The true remedy, the only remedy, for all this blood-guiltiness is in the application of the hemp.

A Silver Half Dollar's Return.

From the Canton, (Ohio) Repository. Some twenty-five years ago David P. Texter, residing on the Massillon road, had in his possession a silver half dollar, made in the year 1828, and that being his natal year, he cut his name on it and thought to retain it as a relic. After several years, however, he paid it out by mistake, along with some other money, and for twenty years it took its course. Last Sunday he sent his little daughter to Massillon on an errand, and upon her return home she gave him some change, and with it was the identical half dollar with his name cut on it.

LIFE WITHOUT FOOD.
The Wonderful Existence of Miss Mollie Fancher—Nine Years in a Trance During Which She Has Eaten Nothing—An Extraordinary Statement of her Physician.

New York Herald: About four weeks ago there was published in the columns of The Herald an account of the extraordinary existence of Miss Mary J. Fancher, of Brooklyn, who has subsisted without food for many years. The publication attracted considerable attention at the time, and the following evidence bearing on the case, given by Dr. Charles E. West to the Herald reporter yesterday, will be found of peculiar interest:

Dr. West said—I first became acquainted with Mary J. Fancher, known as "Mollie" Fancher, Sept. 10, 1860. She was then 14 years of age and was brought to Brooklyn Heights Seminary, of which I am the proprietor, by her aunt, Mrs. Crosby. She was a beautiful girl, of delicate constitution; gentle and very pleasing, a fine scholar and was about ready to graduate when I advised her to leave school on account of her health. She left in April, 1864, and took lessons in horsemanship riding. Unfortunately she was thrown and had two or three of her ribs broken. She was otherwise injured, but recovered sufficiently, however, to get about again. In 1865 she met with another accident. On descending from a street car in Brooklyn her dress caught and she was drawn over the pavement a block. By the accident her nervous system was so shattered that she never recovered from its effects. In the earlier part of 1866 she would throw herself into all kinds of contortions. She would bring her head and feet together and roll over the floor like a hoop. She would stand on her toes and spin like a top. This was in the month of February. When in this violent state it would require several persons to hold her. During that month she lost all her senses, even the sense of touch. She was then given chloroform to relax her jaws so that she could take food, which was forced down her throat, but her stomach would not bear it.

LIVING WITHOUT FOOD.
In May of the same year she asked for food. A small piece of cracker and a teaspoonful of punch were given her. This was the first food she had taken in seven weeks that she was able to retain on her stomach. She was subject to trances during this period. They would come and go, and when in one she was to all appearances dead. In June nourishment was forced by a pump into her stomach, which was her deadly sick. As the result her throat closed, and she was unable to take any nourishment or utter a sound. My first visit to her was on March 4, 1867. I found her lying on her right side, with her right arm folded under her head. Her fingers were clinched in the palm of her hand. Her right arm and hand were paralyzed, and this was true of her body generally except her left arm. She was in a trance, sighed and seemed to be in pain. These trances, at this period, continued ten or twelve days. For twelve years she has lain in one position, rigid, or paralyzed state, her muscles only relaxing under the influence of chloroform. For the last three years her muscles have been in a flexible state. Her sufferings while passing into this new condition were extraordinary. During this long sickness there have been times when she had not the use of one of her senses. For days she has been, to all appearances, dead.

SEEMINGLY DEAD.
The slightest pulse could not be detected. There was no evidence of respiration. Her limbs were as cold as ice, and had it not been for the fact that her heart was beating, she would have been buried. During these twelve years she has virtually lived without food. Pieces of fruit and water have been introduced into her mouth, but scarcely any of them ever made their way into her stomach. So sensitive has been this organ that it would not retain anything. It collapsed so that by placing the hand upon it the spine could easily be felt. There was no place for food. Her heart was greatly enlarged. Severe pains passed from it through the left side and shoulder. With the exception of slight intervals she has been totally blind. Her eyelids were closed for nine years. When she passed from the rigid to the limp state her eyes opened and remained staring. On the Fourth of July last the eyelids closed again and have remained so to the present time. When I first saw her she had but one sense—that of touch. With that she could read with five times the rapidity of one by eyesight. She read by running her fingers over the printed pages as well as in darkness as in light. With this sense she could discriminate the photographs of friends, the faces of persons in the room, etc. She never sleeps. She does her most delicate work in the night, preferring night to day. Her rest in the trance state, which answers for sleep. She performs none of the ordinary functions of life unless it be that of breathing. She receives nothing and gives out nothing, unless it is irresistible perspiration. Her circulation of blood is sluggish, and, as a consequence, there is very little animal heat. She says she cannot die, for there is nothing to die. Such, in brief, is her bodily condition.

MENTAL ACTIVITY.
To me her mental state is more extraordinary than her physical. She has the power of second sight. All places are alike open to her mental vision. Distances interpose no barriers. No retirement however secluded but yields to her penetrating vision. This power, of course, is confined to persons and objects that interest her. She will dictate the contents of sealed letters without a single error. will visit the family circles of her friends in distant towns and tell what they are doing and describe their personal attire. Persons entering the house of her aunt, whether acquaintances or strangers, are instantly recognized. Any article which has been mislaid she sees and tells where it can be found. She discriminates the most delicate shades of color. She works in embroidery and wax without any pattern. Her wax flowers are marvels of beauty. She never studied botany, or took a lesson in wax work, and yet she never makes a mistake in the form of a flower or leaf. Holding her pen or pencil in her left hand she writes with extraordinary rapidity, the letters being well formed and legible. She wrote a poem of ten verses in as many minutes, the thoughts flowing with the rapidity of lightning. In cutting velvet leaves for pin-cushions she holds the scissors by the knuckles of thumb and finger of left hand, and bringing the velvet, with thumb and finger of right hand—both hands being behind her head—cuts the leaves as sharp as if they had been cut with a die. In the early part of her illness she cut over two thousand of these. To April, 1871, she had used 2500 ounces of worsted. To December, 1875, she had written 6500 notes and letters. When she passed from the rigid to the limp condition, three years ago she forgot all that occurred during the nine years and began to talk about matters at the time of the car accident. The nine years have been a blank and are still so to her.

BRIEFLETS.

—An ice morning.
—Prayer meetings to-night.
—One week more for the turkeys to live.
—Be careful where you throw your ashes.

—P. M. Pryor, of the Waupun Times, was in the city to-day.

—There is a regular epidemic now of traveling butcher shops.

—The Guards meet to-night for drill and for business. Let every gun have a man.

—Building prospects promise not to be chilled by cold weather. Several new enterprises are now on foot.

—Look in another column and see what George Stockton has to say in regard to Mme. Demerest's patterns.

—To-morrow night the Janesville Guards will have their reception and dance. It will be a jolly good time.

—There is no longer any need of waiting to get county orders. They are signed and countersigned, and are ready for the applicants.

—Sheriff-elect Comstock now spends most of his time at the Court House. He proposes to be thoroughly posted in every detail of his office before he steps into Colley's shoes.

—The sidewalks on Milwaukee street bridge are so badly worn that every rain leaves great puddles standing upon them, making it almost necessary to run a ferry in wet weather.

—The ice crop does not look very promising yet, and the lovers of sherry cobbler begin to quake in fear for next summer's supply. There is plenty of time yet though for a solid freeze-up.

—The members of the H. C.'s are requested to meet at the office of Winans & McElroy, at half past seven o'clock, sharp, Saturday evening. Every member is requested to be present.

—Mrs. Nathaniel Case is now suffering from a broken arm, caused by slipping down on a plank walk near her house. She is getting along as comfortably as the circumstances will permit.

—Week after next the Conference of the Janesville District of the Methodist church, will be held in this city at the First Methodist church. The conference will last for several days, and an interesting programme has been arranged.

—The Veterans and the Guards have received their vouchers from Madison, and as soon as the necessary papers are signed and sent back each company will receive $500 from the State Treasury. The money will arrive here probably by Saturday.

—At the Bible reading conducted by Rev. Henry Sewell last night in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association about twenty-five were present. The Association is planning for a series of these readings by different persons, and if they receive enough encouragement the plan will be carried into effect.

—Pat Carroll, a Porter farmer, was so loud on the streets last night, as to attract the attention of many, and make himself the observed of all observers. As he had a lively team which was liable to run away, and as there was no other way to stop his noise, Constable Taylor escorted him down to Sheriff Colley's, where he spent the night.

—The Cotton and Woolen Mills are adopting the Harris & Smith safety lamp. Orders are being received from Richmond, Va., for use in the Cotton Mills in that section. In another column may be seen what is thought of these lamps by Albany Woolen Manufacturing Co., of this State, of which Col. E. F. Warren is the Superintendent.

—Walter Helms was rather surprised this morning on seeing his name appear in print as having sung at the entertainment last night. It was the first time that he knew he was a singer with ambitions as a soloist, and he fears his friends will desert him when they learn that he is charged with singing a solo. Fortunately for him the charge is not true.

—Rev. Henry Sewell hasn't a very warm heart toward tramps, owing to bitter experiences in the past. He gave a tramp some supper, and the fellow seemed so grateful and pious that he took him to prayer-meeting. On returning home the stranger turned to stay all night, and was allowed to do so. Before day-break he skipped out taking with him the parson's shoes and stockings, and other articles which sadly interfered with his making his toilet the next morning.

—A postal card was received at the post-office to day from a San Francisco man asking for five copies of the murder trial of Mayberry, which occurred years ago. The postal was directed to Baker, Burnett & Hall, who at that time were running the Free Press, and who published a pamphlet containing an account of the murder and the lynching. The senior member of the firm was the father of Captain Baker, and the card was delivered to him.

—We are having a great deal of cloudy weather, and the days being short and the evenings long, a large amount of gas is used by private consumers; and when the month expires some are surprised at the heavy gas bill. We simply state the fact that it might serve to suggest that economy is a good thing. Economize in gas, as well as in everything else, and you will never begrudge the few dollars spent in furnishing you with the safest and the purest light ever made.

THE CIRCUIT COURT.

The Whitford-Godrich libel suit is progressing very slowly, and uncaring but little of public interest. The examination into the finances and management of Milton College will prove a tedious task to those not immediately connected with the case, and will take up considerable time. The juryman not sitting in the case are excused until next Monday, and it is doubtful whether they will then be needed, as from present prospects it is probable that the case now on trial will reach for the fourth week.

FELTZ BURGLARY.

One Young Man Arrested at Madison and Brought Back to Answer to the Charge.

Marshall Keating has been off on another hunt and as is generally the case with him he bagged his game and brought it back. For some time he has been at work ferreting out the fellows who burglarized Fred Feltz' tailoring establishment. He secured enough evidence to cause him to believe that Tom Ingalls was one of the burglars. He traced Tom to Madison and succeeded in nabbing him there. With Tom was a suspicious character whom Keating arrested also and left in the hands of the Madison authorities. He brought back Ingalls to this city this afternoon and locked him up in jail. Some of the goods have been recovered. Ingalls is a young man about 24 years old, whose widowed mother lives here, and whose relatives occupy respectable positions in society. He was formerly sentenced to a stretch in the penitentiary for larceny and was pardoned out last summer. He claimed to be thoroughly reformed, and wrote very touching letters of a religious tone to his friends here, and after his release frequently visited the jail and talked and prayed with the prisoners. Marshall Keating deserves great credit for the shrewdness with which he is ferreting out criminals, and in this case he thinks he has his man dead to rights.

FACTS ABOUT PICKLES.

The Janesville Pickling and Preserving Company have done a rushing business the last year. During the year they have shipped 6,000 barrels of vinegar pickles and 1,500 barrels of salt pickles. The barrels of vinegar pickles averaged 30 gallons, and the salt pickles averaged 45 gallons per barrel. They have consumed 20,000 bushels of cucumbers. These were gathered from about 200 acres, and the company paid an average of fifty cents a bushel. This year has been one of the most prosperous in the history of the company, notwithstanding the panic feeling which has pervaded all mercantile and manufacturing circles. Their trade has been largely in the East and South, and in these sections it has been steadily increasing while the Western trade has been held firm. Large quantities of pickles have been shipped from here to Bath and Portland, Maine, to Boston, to New York, and in the south to New Orleans and various points in Texas.

The factory is turning out pickles which meet with a more rapid sale than the products of any other factory in the West. This is particularly gratifying not only to those directly interested in the factory but to all citizens who take pride in the prosperity of our local enterprises. Although the factory was started only three years ago last summer, when there was a financial depression which has continued until now, yet from the inception of the enterprise there has been a steady increase of prosperity in spite of these hard times. The managers of the factory have also had to compete with those who have been in the business for twenty years or more, and have had to sell goods in competition with the bankrupt stocks which have been forced on the market by the works at Crystal Springs and other places. In spite of these adverse circumstances the enterprise has proved a success. Their goods have sold readily and are in great demand, and the venture is proving a profitable one. The managers deserve great credit, and the outlook is even brighter than the past. All public-minded citizens will rejoice to learn these facts, and will unite in wishing the business a still greater growth.

BURIAL OF MRS. WOODWORTH.
Many of our old residents will remember George R. Woodworth, who died here about the year 1857. He left a widow and one son surviving, they residing for several years in the homestead standing on the lot now covered by Lovejoy & Blount's lumberyard. The property was sold and Mrs. Woodworth and son removed to Michigan, where she died. Her son was killed upon a railroad about eight years ago, and a few years later her second husband died. Yesterday the remains of her who was once Mrs. Rachel Woodworth, were deposited in their final resting place in Oak Hill Cemetery beside her first husband, having been brought here by her brother Mr. Charles Ruggles, from Pentwater, Michigan, where she died. Mrs. Woodworth was a communicant of Trinity Episcopal church and it was her last request to be buried in Janesville by the services of her church, but as both of the clergymen of that church were absent attending the Diocesan Council in Milwaukee, the Rev. Mr. Chappell kindly consented to officiate, using the Episcopal church burial service.

The deceased was a woman of sterling worth and formerly had many warm friends in this city.

MUSIC AND MIRTH.

There was a goodly sized gathering at the entertainment given by the St. Mary's church choir, last evening. Instrumental music on the piano was furnished by Mrs. Coryell and Miss Reed. Mrs. Murphy, Miss Hurtbaze and James Burns gave some solos. Mr. Walter Helms rendered a solo on his saxophone. This is the only instrument of the kind in the west outside of Chicago, and Mr. Helms is fast becoming master of it. A perting song by a male quartet, consisting of Messrs. Colling, Burns, Noff and Bladen, closed the entertainment. A dance in Apollo hall followed, and was participated in by a large number. Tuckwood's band furnished the music, and the evening was brought to a happy finish.

THE WEATHER.

The thermometer at 7 o'clock this morning stood at 31 degrees above and at two o'clock this afternoon at 49 degrees above. Cloudy. One year ago to day at corresponding hours stood at 35 and 48 degrees above.

The indications to day are for the upper lake region, partly cloudy weather, rain areas, variable winds, shifting to colder north westerly, and higher pressure.

PLANS OF THE VETS.

The Veterans have decided to make such changes in their army, opposite the Edwards house, as to make it the best in the State, and one of the best in the West. Their plan is for the company to purchase the necessary material with money drawn from its treasury, and for the men to do the work without charge. The company has in its ranks mechanics who are willing to do this, and the improvements can thus be made without any great outlay. It is proposed to do away with the posts which support the roof and put truss work in their stead, making the room clear of all obstructions for drill, and having dimensions of forty by sixty feet. The walls are to be plastered and Mr. LaGrange is to decorate them. Possibly a new floor will also be laid. It is also proposed to have a reading room where such of the men as choose can spend their evenings, and where a variety of books and papers can be always found. In fact the "Vets" are planning great improvements and propose to commence upon them at once.

COURT STREET LITERATI.

The organization of the Court Street Literary Society was completed at a meeting held last evening. The election of officers resulted as follows:
President—H. F. Bliss.
Secretary—Wells Ray.
Treasurer—Charles L. Clark.
Executive Committee—H. S. Hogoboom, H. W. Tilton, Miss Estella Griswold.
It is the intention of the Society to provide dime entertainments every other week besides doing sundry literary work. Next Wednesday night there will be a free and open meeting of the Society for the purpose of enrolling members and transacting other business, and for a general discussion.

ACCIDENT.

On Wednesday night the floor in the granary of Vincent Bros. near Milton gave way precipitating several hundred bushels of oats and barley into the basement below in which were seven head of cattle. The fact was not discovered until the morning of Thursday, and after removing the grain two cows were found dead, having been smothered, and another was nearly dead. Much of the grain was more or less injured, and the loss of the Vincent Brothers' will amount to quite a sum.

INSTRUCTION IN DECORATIVE ART.

Miss Mary Johnson, a most efficient and successful teacher of decorative art, is now in the city prepared to instruct such as may desire to secure her services. Specimens of her artistic skill are now on exhibition at King's book store next to the postoffice, and will remain in his show window until Friday night, where all can see them. Next Friday afternoon from 2:30 o'clock till 4:30 o'clock, Miss Johnson will be pleased to meet in the Myers house parlors any and all who desire information in regard to her work, and she will at that time make definite arrangements for the organization of classes. The terms are reasonable, and her method of teaching renders the work both easy and enjoyable. It is always desirable that novel and refined attractions should grace our homes, and the approaching holidays will also increase the demand for these things of beauty. In view of this a specialty is made of painting on porcelain wood, and terra cotta. Private lessons will also be given in drawing, painting in water colors, and modelling in clay.

An Undeniable Truth.

You deserve to suffer, and if you lead a miserable, unsatisfactory life in this beautiful world, it is entirely your own fault and there is only one excuse for you,—your unreasonable prejudice and skepticism, which has killed thousands. Personal knowledge and common sense reasoning, will soon show you that Green's August Flower will cure you of Liver Complaint, or Dyspepsia, with all its miserable effects, such as sick headache, palpitation of the heart, sour stomach, habitual constipation, distress of the head, nervous prostration, low spirits, etc. Its sales now reach every town on the Western Continent and not a Druggist but will tell you of its wonderful cures. You can buy a Sample Bottle for 10 cents. Three doses will relieve you.

Mrs. Sarah A. Elliott.

Authors of "Mrs. Elliott's Housewife," Oxford, N. C. write: I was among the first that used the "London Hair Color Restorer" in this section, and recommended it to A. C. A. Santos, Norfolk, Va., as the most beautiful hair dresser and preserver I had ever seen. I was advised by an eminent physician to use it. Since doing so, it has proved so satisfactory in restoring and beautifying my hair, as well as strengthening my eyesight, that I have recommended it to the druggists here in Oxford, Raleigh, and a great many of my friends, and believe I have from what others say, caused it to have a wide and extended sale, and deservedly so, as it certainly is the most cleanly and effective hair restorer now before the American people. The "London Hair Color Restorer" can be obtained at all the leading druggists at 75 cents a bottle, or $4 for six bottles.
